BERGERON LAND DEVELOPMENT ENHANCES STEM PROGRAM AT PLANTATION ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. – Bergeron Land Development recently donated the materials and installation of a concrete learning pad at Plantation Elementary School, a Title I, Sprouting STEM Museum Magnet School. The pad will be used for the school’s Environmental STEM Learning Garden created to increase student achievement through enhanced parent involvement and engagement.

“We truly appreciate Bergeron’s kindness in supporting our entire school community,” said Darlene DeRusha, STEM Magnet Coordinator. “They have touched the lives of all our stakeholders through their support and have made a big difference.”

“At Bergeron, we are proud to enhance our community, through our roadway construction, site development and environmental projects, but we welcome opportunities to shape young lives with equal enthusiasm,” said Operations Director Chad Widup. “We are happy to know that both our large public works projects and small volunteer projects like this will continue to shape our communities for years to come.”

About the STEM Program at Plantation Elementary School

The STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) Museum model provides an interactive learning environment that expands beyond the classroom walls to museums, community and the world. The integration of the Museum model in STEM curriculums offers students the opportunity to explore experiment, explain and exhibit research through engaging real world projects. Students use engineering practices to create, build, and design solutions as they discover academics in a new enriching manner.
